Objective:

The objective of the workshop on Basic Counselling Skills was to provide participants with a foundational understanding of essential counselling techniques, focusing on developing active listening, empathy, and effective communication skills. It aimed to enhance their ability to address emotional and psychological challenges by fostering problem-solving and interpersonal abilities. Through interactive sessions and hands-on practice, the workshop sought to build participants' confidence and equip them with the tools needed for real-life applications in counselling and support roles.

Report:

The Department of Psychology, St. Thomas College of Arts and Science, in collaboration with the Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC), organized a five-day workshop titled "Basic Counselling Skills" from 16th to 21st February 2024 for the III years. The resource persons for the workshop were Ms. Sangeetha and Mr. Sivakumar, trained professionals from SCARF (Schizophrenia Research Foundation). The sessions were conducted in the seminar hall and aimed at equipping students with practical counselling techniques essential for addressing emotional and psychological challenges.

The workshop commenced with an introduction to the fundamentals of counselling, emphasizing the significance of empathy, active listening, and effective communication. Participants actively engaged in various interactive activities, including role-playing, group discussions, and case study analysis, to practice and refine their skills. These activities not only enhanced their understanding of counselling techniques but also encouraged teamwork, collaboration, and peer learning.

Each session concluded with constructive feedback from the resource persons, enabling participants to identify areas of improvement and build confidence in their abilities. The participants also shared their reflections, highlighting the practical insights gained from the sessions. Additionally, the workshop incorporated real-life scenarios, which provided a deeper understanding of how to approach diverse counselling situations effectively.

The workshop witnessed enthusiastic participation from students across disciplines, fostering a dynamic and engaging learning environment. By the end of the program, participants had acquired foundational counselling skills, improved their interpersonal abilities, and gained confidence in applying counselling strategies in real-world contexts. This initiative successfully prepared students for future roles that require emotional intelligence, problem-solving skills, and effective communication.

Glimpse of the Event:

Students participating in a discussion circle, reflecting on key takeaways from the Basic Counselling Skills and fostering collaborative learning and peer interaction.

Outcome:

The workshop on Basic Counselling Skills successfully achieved its objectives, equipping participants with a foundational understanding of counselling principles and techniques. By the end of the sessions, students demonstrated improved active listening, empathy, and communication skills, which are essential for addressing emotional and psychological challenges. The interactive activities, including role-playing, group discussions, and case studies, enhanced their ability to apply these skills in practical settings. Participants also developed stronger teamwork and interpersonal abilities, which were fostered through collaborative exercises. The constructive feedback from the resource persons further boosted their confidence and provided clarity on areas for improvement. Overall, the workshop created a transformative learning experience, preparing students for real-life applications of counselling and equipping them with the tools needed to excel in roles requiring emotional intelligence and effective problem-solving.

BIG DATA ANALYTICS

No. of Participants	39
Resource Person Details	Mr.Rajkavin M. J, B.E.(ECE)
Date	13 th October 2023
Time	11.30 a.m
Venue	BCA Lab

Objective:

This guest lecture will make students comfortable with the tools and techniques required for handling large amounts of datasets and will also help them develop the skills required to gain experience doing independent research and study.

Report:

The Department of Computer Applications, in collaboration with IQAC, hosted a guest lecture on "Big Data Analytics". Mrs. Shaila M. Cherry, HOD of the Department, extended a warm welcome to the attendees. The session was led by Mr. Rajkavin M. J., a project engineer at Pantech e-Learning, Chennai, who elucidated the nuances of big data analytics. Thirty nine students from III year BCA attended the seminar. He covered various types of analytics—descriptive, diagnostic, predictive, and prescriptive—highlighting their significance in deriving meaningful insights.

The speaker delved into the array of tools integral to big data analytics, including Hadoop, Spark, data integration software, stream analytics tools, distributed storage, predictive analytics hardware and software, data mining tools, NoSQL databases, and data warehouses. A group of 39 third-year BCA students participated in this seminar, actively engaging in discussions and sharing positive feedback.

The event concluded with an interactive Q&A session where participants raised queries, fostering an enriching exchange of ideas. Dr. B. Bavani, Assistant Professor in the Department of Computer Applications, graciously delivered the vote of thanks, acknowledging the speaker and participants for their valuable contributions.

TRENDS OF AI IN THE REAL WORLD

No. of Participants	40
Resource Person Details	Mr. Vignesh Kumaran A
Date	29 th February 2024
Time	9.30 AM
Venue	BCA Lab

Objective:

The objective of the guest lecture "Trends of AI in the Real World" is to provide participants with an overview of the current developments and applications of artificial intelligence across various industries. It aims to highlight how AI technologies are transforming real-world solutions, from business and healthcare to education and entertainment, and discuss the emerging trends shaping the future of AI.

Report:

On 29th February 2024, the Department of Computer Applications, in association with the Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC), organized an insightful guest lecture on "Trends of AI in the Real World" at the BCA Lab. The event, which commenced at 9:30 AM, aimed to familiarize students and faculty members with the current advancements in artificial intelligence (AI) and its growing applications across industries.

The lecture began with an inspiring Welcome Address by Mrs. Shaila M. Cherry, Head of the Department of Computer Applications. In her speech, Mrs. Cherry highlighted the importance of AI in today's rapidly evolving technological landscape and stressed the need for students to stay updated with these trends to harness AI's potential for innovation and problem-solving.

The session was enriched by the Resource Person, Mr. Vignesh Kumaran, an IoT Engineer at Pantech E-Learning, Chennai. Mr. Kumaran, shared his expertise on how AI is being applied in real-world scenarios. His presentation covered a wide range of topics, from the basics of AI and machine learning to its cutting-edge applications in industries such as healthcare, robotics, autonomous systems, and the Internet of Things (IoT). He also discussed emerging trends like generative AI, AI ethics, and AI's potential to transform various sectors in the near future.

The session was engaging, with Mr. Kumaran making complex concepts easy to understand for the audience through real-life examples and case studies. His interactive approach encouraged active participation from the students, who showed great enthusiasm and curiosity about the future prospects of AI technology.

Following the lecture, Dr. B. Bavani, Assistant Professor in the Department of Computer Applications, delivered the Vote of Thanks. She expressed gratitude to the resource person, faculty members, and students for their active involvement, and emphasized how such sessions are crucial for broadening the academic horizon and bridging the gap between theory and practice.
